Driver Training
The Driver Training Course will be offered again this year as part of the Academy Curriculum. Nearly one hundred students have already benefited from this course and its introduction two years ago.

Driver Training is made possible through the courtesy of Bennett's Garage which furnishes the dual control car and the American Automobile Association which supplies much of the instructional material.

To Give Free Chest X-Rays Sept. 18-19

Every resident of Bethel 15 years of age or over will be given the opportunity to have a free chest X-ray Thursday and Friday, September 18 and 19. A chest X-ray bus from the United States Public Health Service will be located in front of the community room on those days. X-raying will start at 1 p. m. on Thursday, Sept. 18, and finish at 5:00 p. m. X-ray hours for the second day, Sept. 19, are 9:00-12:00, 1:00-5:00.

The State Department of Health and Welfare and the Maine Tuberculosis Association are cooperating with the U. S. Public Health Service in making possible the Chest X-ray Survey for Bethel and other Maine communities.

The X-ray team takes 150 to 200 X-rays each hour. Therefore persons being X-rayed will have only a very short wait for their turn in front of the X-ray camera. The X-ray pictures are taken through clothing so it will not be necessary to undress.

Mrs. Henry Hastings has been named general chairman for this community project. Those assisting Mrs. Hastings are Mrs. John Howe, Mrs. Donald Christie, Mrs. George Taylor, and Mrs. Roy Moore. Mrs. Hastings is hoping for 100% cooperation from community residents and that all adults in Bethel will take advantage of this opportunity to get a chest X-ray.

A PROCLAMATION

Whereas, the well being of our town can rise no higher than the character of our people and the integrity, goodwill and social concern so greatly needed in our community are character traits nurtured by high religious devotion.

Whereas, the effective and faithful teaching now being carried on in our churches and homes should be more generally recognized by our people as being basic to the welfare of every aspect of desirable community and family life.

Now therefore, we Ernest P. Baker, John H. Carter, James T. Bartlett, the Selectmen of the Town of Bethel, Maine, hereby proclaim the period beginning Sunday, September 28 and continuing through Sunday, October 5, 1952, as the Twenty-second Annual Christian Education Week.

That the fact that our town will hold inter-church services of teaching, singing and devotion for the Bible Tuesday, September 30, on the day of the first public appearance of the Revised Standard Version of the Bible and hope that the message of the Holy Scriptures will come alive for our people in new, compelling power.

NEW BIBLE VERSION ON SALE SEPT. 30

A new version of the Bible, written in modern English, goes on sale Sept. 30 and the publishers are so certain that it will hit the top of the best seller lists that they are printing a record-breaking first edition of 1,000,000 copies.

This new Protestant edition of the scriptures, retaining the poetry of older versions but modernizing the wording, has been titled "The Revised Standard Version of the Bible."

One sample of the streamlining is the New Testament phrase "suffer unto the day is the evil thereof." It was changed to "Let us day, now trouble be sufficient for the day."

It took 22 scholars 15 years to complete the task which was authorized in 1929. The experts combed recently discovered ancient documents to correct and amend texts. They spent long hours preparing the manuscript which has been printed in type larger than the print in old Bibles.

Officials of the National Council of Churches of Christ in the U. S. A. which sponsored and copyrighted the revision, said it marked the biggest event in the Protestant world since the King James version of the Bible appeared in England in 1611. It is the first official American version in 51 years.

Recent guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Evans Wilson were Rev. and Mrs. Edwin Wilson, the Misses Elizabeth Currier and Ruth Ross of Errol, and Miss Nancy Collins of Errol.

Mr. and Mrs. Leland Bradford and son David returned last week to their home in Washington, D. C. after spending the summer in town. Mr. Bradford was director of the National Training Laboratory at Gould Academy.

The W. S. C. S. met last Thursday at the cottage of Mrs. Fern Jordan at Songo Pond with 14 present. About $15 was reported received from the silent food sale. Mrs. Donald Christie was appointed to serve on the jewelry committee to replace Mrs. Richard Harbour. Jewelry may be seen at her home. Mrs. Anne Hanson was appointed to serve on the Christian Social Relations and local church activities, the position left vacant by Mrs. Harbour. It was voted to have a food sale Sept. 13. The district meeting will be held Sept. 15 at the Methodist Church in Naples. All members desiring to attend please contact Mrs. Donald Christie. The next meeting will be with Mrs. Leslie Davis.

UNION SCHOOL ENROLLMENT AT NEW HIGH—523 IN BETHEL

The enrollment in the Bethel schools is 523, an increase of 25 over the 498 which started last year. Most of this increase, which is enough to fill one more classroom, is due mainly to the large entering class, the result of the first full year of the post war "baby boom." Enrollment by schools and grades is as follows:

By Schools	Grade 8	Grade 7	Grade 6	Grade 5	Grade 4	Grade 3	Grade 2	Grade 1	Junior Prim.	Total
Schools Crescent Park 266
Primary										189
West Bethel Prim.										25
East Bethel Prim.										17
South Bethel Prim.										26

"I REMEMBER"

BY THE OLD TIMERS

From Mrs. Homer Gaseel, Canton, Me.: I remember when men would congregate near hitching posts to catch a glimpse of a woman's ankle as she stepped down from her buggy.

From Johnson Ufferbach, Sulphur, Okla.: I remember when my daddy and mother turned the gutters through the filter into the cistern to catch snow water, so we would have pure cool water—also when all the ice we had was cut from rivers and ponds and stored in ice houses with layers of sawdust.

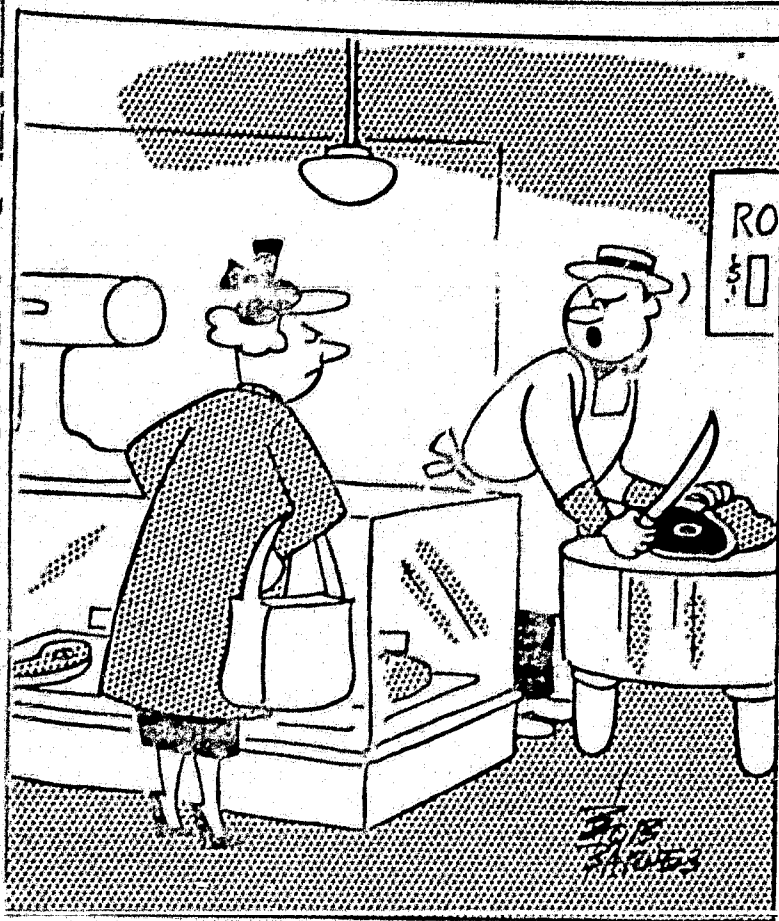

From S. I. McGinnis, Colledon, W. Va.: I remember when we used to go to bean stringings and apple peeling, and what a good time everybody had. I don't hear of these things any more.

From Mrs. Anna Kelsey, Weston, Ohio: I remember when I was a kid my folks used to make apple butter. They would peel the apples the day before and have several barrels of sweet cider ready. They would get up early the next morning and begin stirring apple butter and continue until midnight, making 50 or 60 gallons of apple butter. I have the large brass kettle they used in my yard—it is more than 100 years old.

From Mrs. Edward Koch, Ft. Recovery, Ohio: When a person died, the neighbors laid him out on a "cooling board"—a wide board on two benches—and put large copper pans, about the size of half dollars—on his eyes to keep them closed. The carpenter was called to take measurements for the coffin, and at the funeral, instead of the smell of flowers, there was the smell of varnish. The coffin was taken to the cemetery in a big farm wagon.

LAFF OF THE WEEK

Madam, the slaughterhouse pays for the bone—the distributor pays for the bone—I pay for the bone.

Blind Since Birth, Worker Wins $1130 For Suggestion

DESPITE total blindness since birth, Roger T. Warren received an award of $1,130 from the International Business Machines Corp. for suggesting the application of the silk-screen process to speed a time-consuming phase of typewriter production. As a result of his suggestion, the time required to put the front paper scale and paper guide markings on the IBM electric typewriter was reduced. More than three hours in production time was saved on every 100 machines by Warren's method.

Employed as an assembler at the company's Poughkeepsie, N. Y., plant since 1942, Mr. Warren has completed a course in radio servicing and is an accomplished pianist and accordion player. He is also an outstanding member of the IBM Speaker's Club. His seeing-eye dog, Lady, accompanies him to work and, as shown above, remains with him at his bench.

Previous to Mr. Warren's suggestion, the scale and guide markings had been put on by the decimal process. Since this had to be done entirely by hand it was a slow method. When the silk-screen process was first suggested it was considered impractical because of the close tolerances necessary and the clarity of the print needed to go with the modern styling of the typewriter. After careful investigation and development work, however, it was found that the process was excellent for the job and Mr. Warren won his award.

You wouldn't take a Million Dollars for this Picture!

It's the X-ray picture that proves you're free from tuberculosis.

It's a picture that brings you peace of mind... the comfort and security that come from knowing an inside story of your health.

And if you should be one of those who have active tuberculosis without knowing it, your chest X-ray will probably detect it in its early stages and point the way to prompt, effective treatment.

Remember—if proper treatment is started in the early stages of TB, the cure is comparatively easy. The longer TB goes undetected, the longer and costlier the cure.

Protect yourself—protect your family by having your chest X-rayed today.

MAINE'S 4-Hers GOING TO SPRINGFIELD

Maine will be well represented at the 4-H club section of the Eastern States Exposition at Springfield, Mass., September 14 to 20. Ten top-notch boys and girls have been chosen to represent the state. They are: Sharill Conroy, of Perham; Elizabeth Mosher, of Farmington; Gladys Webster, of Fayette; Amy Haggood, of South Paris; Carol Rollins, of Garland; L. Bruce Small, of Bowdoin; Richard Bean, of Otisfield; Kenneth Bartlett, of Union; Paul Gay, of Jonesboro; and Michael Mann, of Emery Mills.

It's too bad that some of the speakers who speak "straight from the shoulder," can't speak from a little higher up.

Maine Boy Designers Win

WINNERS in the annual model car competition of the Fisher Body Craftsman's Guild are Raymond Blace (upper right), of Springvale, who took first state honors in the Junior Division (ages 12 through 15), and Edward C. Lary of West Scarborough, whose beautiful model car won first in the Senior Division (ages 16 through 19). Each received a cash award of $150. Both boys' models went on to take regional honors and a chance to win a university scholarship in the national competition.

CHARLES FARRELL and "Seventh Heaven" are synonymous, at least in the minds of avid moviegoers of the late 20's. He played Chico opposite Janet Gaynor in the stirring drama of World War I TV series, "My Little Margie" . . . His daughter, Margie, is played by Gale Storm, who has three children of her own . . . It was at the behest of Hal Roach, Sr., a long-time friend of Charles', that the star returned to public life, and it is Hal Roach, Jr. who is producing the series of T.V. domestic comedies.

Farrell's screen career, after some years of extra work, was launched in Paramount's "Old Ironsides" directed by the late James Cruze. "Seventh Heaven" followed (1927) . . . Then came a series of other Fox pictures, including "Street Angel," "The Man Who Came Back," "Sunny Side Up" and others, most of them with Janet Gaynor . . . In 1932 he married Virginia Valli in New York City . . . She had been a screen star in her own right, but retired upon marriage.

When the picture industry apparently was falling for him he hid himself to Palm Springs, picked up a piece of sand which later became the lucrative Rascals Club . . . It was on Christmas Day of 1934 that he opened the project . . . The following day, Hal Roach Sr. went down to the California desert, ran into Charlie and asked him how he was doing . . . Farrell, in all honesty, replied, "Well, we look in $18 yesterday" and Roach, in all honesty, said, "Well, we opened the Santa Anita race track and took in a million and a half" . . . The chickens came home to roost for Charlie . . . In the years that followed he has made close to three quarters of a million a year with his original pile of sand.

He and Virginia operate the club together and during the summer reside in Beverly Hills.

BRYANT POND EDGES A. C. 4-3 IN SEASON'S FINAL

The Bryant Pond pastimers edged the Bethel A. C. 4-3 in a six inning contest at Thurston Field last Thursday evening, Sept. 4.

Dick Mills went the route for the winners giving up five hits, walking one and striking out five batters. Lawrence Bailey was victimized for 10 hits, failed to walk a batter and fanned nine men.

Pitcher Mills enjoyed a perfect night at the plate with a double and two singles in three trips. Wing homered for the victors.

Coming a modern city. The traffic in down town Beirut, he says, is impossible worse than in Hong Kong during rush hours because the streets are so much narrower. The Damascus road is a solid line of cars both morning and evening because of people driving into the city from their summer homes in the mountains of Lebanon and back again at night. Many of the Moslem women still wear veils, he states.

"EASY DOES IT"

TO REMOVE grease spots easily from a suede shoe, rub with a cloth which has been dipped in ordinary glycerine.

To dry-proof upholstery, garments or curtains, dissolve 7 ounces of borax and 2 ounces of boric acid in 2 quarts of water. This may be sprayed on upholstery or may be used as a dip for the other articles. This does not prevent charring but it does prevent burning. Repeat treatment after each cleaning.

Jewelry that has been dulled may be brightened by dipping in a solution of 2 tablespoons of baking soda to a quart of warm water. After cleaning, rinse and polish with a dry cloth.

Use natural wood to frame pictures. The wood may be kept its natural color or you may paint the frame white or a solid color chosen from the picture itself.

Keeping a mounted blackboard hung at eye level just outside the backdoor is a useful way of reminding children and tradespeople. It may be used to remind youngsters to remove rubbers before coming into the house or tradespeople that you are busy at certain times and do not wish to be interrupted.

RECIPE OF THE WEEK

Coffee Bread Pudding

(Serves 6)

1 cup crumbled bread

1/2 cup brown sugar

1/4 teaspoon salt

1/4 teaspoon cinnamon

1/4 teaspoon cloves

1/4 cup melted butter or substitute

2 eggs, beaten

2 cups hot milk

3 cups strong hot coffee

Arrange bread in greased pudding dish. Combine brown sugar, salt and spices with melted butter and eggs. Stir in milk and coffee and turn over bread. Bake in a slow (300°F.) oven about 1 hour.

To remove crayon marks on washable wallpaper sponge with carbon tetrachloride, then wash with soap and water. On non-washable wallpaper dampen a clean soft cloth with carbon tetrachloride and sponge lightly but do not rub. Repeated sponging may lighten them to make them almost invisible.

Use your bread board whenever you slice or chop foods of any kind to prevent linoleum covered work surfaces from scratching.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

Study your scenes in the view finder until you are sure you have the picture you want.

Some of the Nicest Scenery Is Home-Grown

WHERE do you find scenery? I'll bet that if you went around asking people that question you'd find that the answers had one thing in common. Chances are good that practically every one of them would reply in terms of something that is distant and that is large in scale and scope.

The point I want to make is that most of us just never think of the scenic views around home—the things that we see as we drive along a country road, the pleasant little landscapes. Yet, these things offer material for the most charming snapshots. A friend of mine who practically makes a hobby of collecting pictures like this, has the nicest of his enlarged and uses them very effectively as part of the decorative scheme in the hallway of his home.

The little scenes are really much easier to take, of course, than the vast scenes. There's room in the camera's view finder for the whole scene, and you aren't as likely to be disappointed. When you are picture a vast scene, you can usually get in only a portion of the view you enjoyed in total.

To illustrate today's column I chose a pleasant little country scene that happens to be a favorite of mine. It has many very good points. First of all, let's suppose that you visited this farm during this summer. For you then, this snapshot has definite recall value. A glance at it refreshes your memory and is likely to start off a whole chain of remembrances of things that happened and things you did.

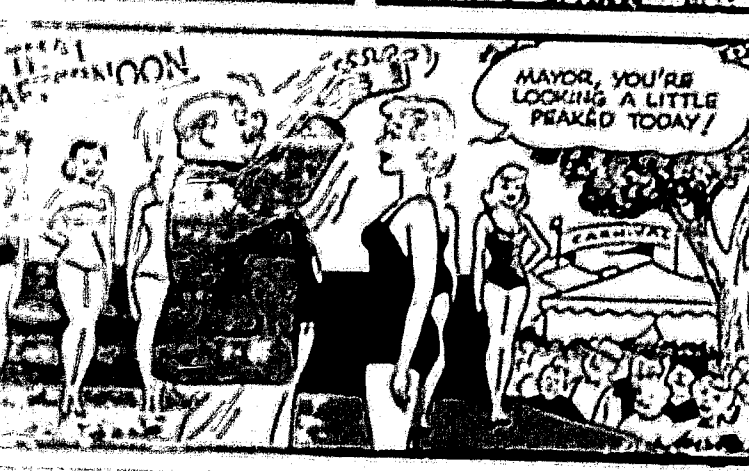

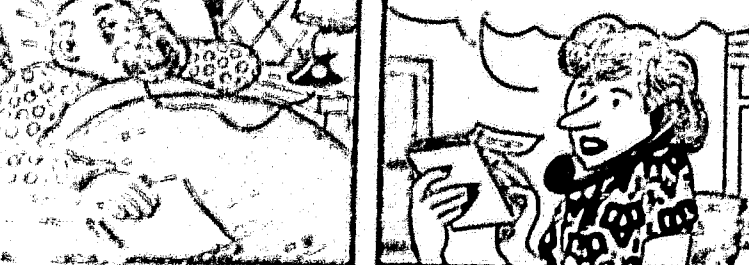

The curve of the road very effectively leads the eye into the center of interest—the grouping of farm buildings. The sweep of the fence makes the effect even stronger. And the figures walking along the road add a secondary note of interest and give an idea of the distances involved.

There's scenery all around us. You don't need to wait until you go travelling to make pleasant scenic snapshots.

POLIO FACTS

EARLY APPLICATION OF FULL KENNY TREATMENT IS IMPORTANT IN PREVENTING POLIO CRUELTY

"I REMEMBER" BY THE OLD TIMERS

From Ad Zachary, Martinsville, Ill.: I remember when we broke a hamstring or a trace chain, we made one out of hickory bark—also we spliced trace chain with same.

From B. J. McGinnis, Collieden, W. Va.: I remember when my parents stored 60-gallon barrels of pickle beans, sour kraut, and sorghum molasses in our smoke house every fall.

From Mrs. Grace DuEhl, Marysville, Wash.: I remember when my grandmother took all the dishes and other glassware that was broken in the household out to the chicken yard, where she put them on a flat rock and pulverized them with an old hammer so the hens would have grit.

From Mrs. Frank Johnson, Fayetteville, Ark.: I remember when we made hats out of corn shucks. We didn't have screen doors at that time, and when we went to eat, we children had to keep the flies away with buck brush.

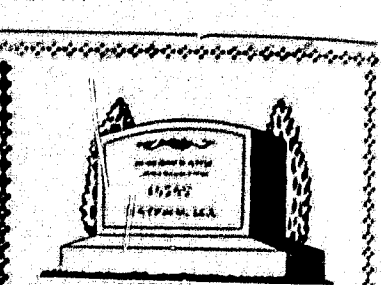

From Amelia Decker, Denver, Col.: I remember when we cooked apple butter in large quantities outdoors in big iron kettles and everybody took turns stirring the apple butter while it was cooking.

From E. E. Meredith, Fairmont, W. Va.: I remember when young men showed off by jumping off the streetcar before it came to a stop.

ALLOWANCE

By CLARK WESTON

THINGS went along smoothly with the William Haigs, so long as the exchequer lacked not in here. But when in the early part of 1939 Old Man Depression gained almost complete possession of the U.S.A., and William Haig's income was reduced from $30,000 per annum to $10,000 per annum—then things weren't so pleasant.

The Haigs weren't used to such poverty. They became irritable.

"It's bad enough," Mrs. Haig was saying one bleak fall evening, "to have my allowance cut to one hundred a week, let alone having to get along without a personal maid. It's—It's humiliating!"

"Your allowance," said Mr. Haig, looking around the edge of his paper, "composes just one-half of the family's total income. Your lack of economy is most alarming. Beginning tomorrow, you go on $75 per."

Mrs. Haig looked as though she were about to burst a blood vessel. She might have, had not, at that moment, the front door bell rung. They listened while the maid opened the door, allowing a blast of cold air to circulate the spacious living room. Mrs. Haig shuddered, and then cocked her head as a thin voice came trailing in from the hall.

"Would you mind please," said the voice, "if I were to use your telephone? My husband is sick and—"

The maid's voice cut in with a blunt refusal. Mr. Haig glanced at his wife then lifted his voice: "Let her use the 'phone if she likes, Laura. She can't hurt it."

Mr. Haig turned in his chair as the hall doorway opened and a woman entered, a small woman with a tattered shawl thrown over her shoulders; a woman whose face was drawn and white from the cold. She paused just inside the door and said, "Oh," as if embarrassed.

Mr. Haig nodded toward the telephone. The William Haigs couldn't very well help hearing the conversation, though they tried politely not to. And when the little woman was through, Mrs. Haig looked up and smiled at the little woman's thanks.

The little woman paused for a moment, allowing her eyes to wander about the room, and finally Mrs. Haig said: "You think it's pretty?"

"It's nice," said their visitor. Her tone was faintly wistful. "Nice and warm."

The little woman gazed wistfully at the fireplace. "No," she said slowly. "No, we haven't any wood. And Robert—he's my husband—Robert's too proud to ask the town for help. You see—he's ashamed of the admission—we've always been able to buy wood before. But now Robert's sick, and we must have some."

William Haig laid down his paper. "You're Mrs. Morgan, aren't you?"

"Yes, sir."

"And you've lived in Maplewood—how long?"

"Thirty-two years next month."

"And you've been paying taxes all that time?"

"Yes. We used to own our house, you know. Now—"

Mr. Haig stood up with his back to the fire. "Mrs. Morgan," he said, "I just overheard your conversation with the town welfare board. I gathered that they refused to give you any wood?"

Mrs. Morgan nodded. "They said Robert was paid by the mill for working last week. But that money's gone now, for medicine."

"It seems to me," said Mr. Haig, "that this town owes you something. Mrs. Morgan, you've been a good citizen for thirty-two years, paid your taxes and contributed to projects of a public nature. Now you practically beg for money that is rightfully your own. You've as much right to it as anyone else. Who, it's like to know, the devil does this welfare board think it is?"

"As if you ought to be cared for without having to undergo all this humiliation. That's what counts!" He frowned. "Mrs. Morgan, you go on home, and I'll see what I can do with that welfare board. In the meantime I'll have our chauffeur carry over enough wood from our cellar to keep you warm."

Mrs. Morgan seemed on the point of tears, and at sight of her expression Mrs. Haig came around the divan and placed an arm around the little woman's shoulder.

"And while Orway is bringing over the wood," she said, "I'll ask Laura to see what she can do about finding something to eat. I'll also call Dr. Godfrey myself and ask him to come up to see your husband. I wouldn't worry," continued Mrs. Haig, "about being warm and having enough to eat from now on."

When Mrs. Morgan had gone, Mrs. Haig came back to the fireplace and said, without looking up: "William, you know it's impossible to do anything with the welfare board. They're almost destitute themselves and are really doing the best they can."

"And we've promised them food and warmth. Well, they'll have it. Ten minutes ago I cut your allowance twenty-five dollars. I'm restoring the amount to your weekly stipend, my dear. Where do you want it sent?"

Mrs. Haig looked up brightly. "Humiliation is a terrible thing. William, I think we'd better send it to the Morgans."

Corn Kernel Muffins

For breakfast, brunch or lunch—here is a menu to please all comers. It's so delicious, nobody believes that it's a "breeze" to make!

Pamper your family with these easy-to-make Corn Kernel Muffins—hot, golden brown and tender.

They are so quickly prepared you may wonder why you long ago didn't adopt the Southern practice of making quick breads.

Corn Kernel Muffins have many hidden assets, too—especially when you use enriched flour. Enriched flour contains extra B-vitamins and food iron. And these "extras" are available at no added cost to you.

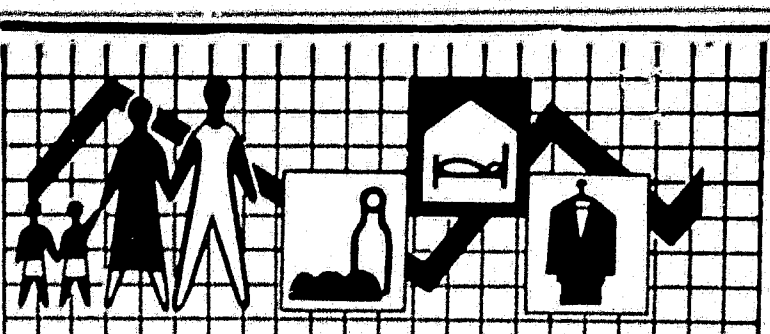

With Corn Kernel Muffins, bring on baked eggs topped with bacon strips. A good starter is cantaloupe wedges or chilled tomato juice. Don't limit Corn Kernel Muffins and baked eggs to breakfast time. This menu is an easy and "fun" way to entertain at brunch. Serve it with a fruit salad, coffee and assorted cookies for dessert. Buy the cooking at the bakery when time is limited.

Corn Kernel Muffins and baked eggs make a hearty lunch for school children. Accompany with a tossed salad and milk, followed by fresh, sliced peaches and cream.

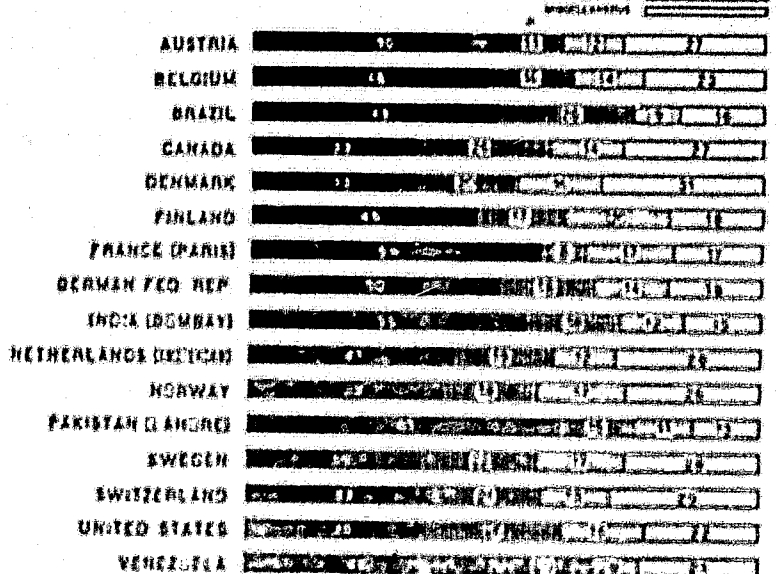

CORN KERNEL MUFFINS

1 1/2 cups sifted enriched flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons sugar
1 egg, beaten
1/2 cup milk
1/2 cup whole kernel corn (fresh or canned)

Sift together flour, baking powder, salt and sugar. Combine egg, milk, corn and shortening. Add to flour mixture. Mix until flour is moistened. Fill greased muffin pans 2/3 full. Bake in hot oven (425°F.) 25 minutes. Makes 12 3-inch muffins.
